Night on the Prairie

By Rufus Sage

VII

*To me thrice welcome then, ye prairies wild!
Midnight, and gloom, and solitude, ye please.
My restless fancy! Welcome then your child!
For here's my home.
And so, with mind at ease,
I will embrace mother earth and court the soothing power of sleep.
The clear blue sky, my canopy, the ground my bed;
I lie curtained by the pale moon-beams, which sport beside my lowly couch, and light dew with mimic diamonds' glow – while flowers around my pillow'd head their willing incense strew,
And the sweet dreaming bird anon doth sound
some isolated note of melody!
Thus chambered here, may note kings envy me?
Rufus Sage, Rocky Mountain Life, Page 334.*

Have you ever wondered how many people were in the early American west? I have. Over the years, experts and historians have claimed about 3,000 people were in this wild and adventurous place during the time of the fur trade. This period drew many individuals for various reasons: money, adventure or even health. This list, far from complete, will hopefully recognize those who are mentioned in the journals, diaries and autobiographies of the day. These individuals, whether well-known or not, led interesting lives, had grand adventures and experienced many stories to tell us about. I guess in a way, this list is really for the unknown ones. Those who made the long, hard trip west, sometimes for only a short time, but saw the west as it was and will never made a list of “famous” people.

So, for you, the viewer of this work, here is my list of references out of 121 books, in its latest form. This is the fourth updated edition of where to find individuals is taken from the most common journals and diaries of the western American fur trade. The total number of people recorded here is about 5,034 and approximately 12,573 entries on where to find them in the pages. This large group is far from the total number that actually was in the early west. Some the names who were there may never be found, as there was no written record of their travels. Or the only record made or group had been lost, destroyed or misplaced. In this edition, I added a number of Native names to the list.

The most written about person during this time is Thomas Fitzpatrick with 33 entries. This means he shows up in 27% of the books, quite an accomplishment! Evidently, everyone who met him thought there was something about him to merit words in their journals. Surprises for me in who shows up here? Yes. Hall J. Kelly, Samuel Tullock and Francis Payette – I will let you count the times they were written about.

Why is a list like this important? Many web-based sites will give you generalities and even facts on individuals who were alive during that time, but that is their limit information. Being able to view a primary source gives the researcher much more than the facts. The writer's education level, regional or ethnic speech, mannerisms and even personalities come out. I hope this data base will be a help to you; either as a way to find a long lost relative or when researching information on an individual. May it shed more light on this wonderful and exciting period and help you in your knowledge of a time frame that we love.

How to use this database:

Think of a name you would like to find some information on. For example, let's use Joseph Barnett, you will find the following results:

Joseph Barnett

trappers 157
Mtn 74 85 107-9

You see his name and where he is mentioned. On the right side of the page, the book titles are seen (see list on complete titles and their associating shorter reference) and the page(s) in the book where to find him. The only exception is when you see the designation "haf", which is the multi-volume set by LeRoy Hafen; when that name shows up, the volume of the set will be shown first and then the page to look for. I have tried to make this as easy as possible, but I need to give some helpful hints:

- If you don't find much, look for various spellings of a last name, especially if it is French or Spanish. Americans sometimes spelled these phonically or incorrectly in their writings and many times just wrong.

- Try looking up the first name, as in some journals they are called by this and not their full name.

- If they have a nick name or have the name "Baptiste" or "Pierre" as part of their recognized name be sure to see what I have listed on them on with their first and last names.

- Know the American/ French/Spanish versions of names. John/ Jean/ Juan is just one example of this, as some first names were noted in a language familiar with the writer and possibly not the reader.

- If you see the note "book", he or she has written a journal or dairy and will it be a good source for information on them and normally the abbreviated title will be shown after this.

- If you see "...", this means there are more places in the book than I can note, which is usually more than four entries. You will want to see the index at the back of the book for all of the places found, if there is one. Otherwise, you will need to read or scan over the complete book (which was what I had to do sometimes).

- The title Captain, Colonel, Doctor or Major does not mean they were in the army, navy or a trained physician in any form. The title was sometimes given to a party leader, healer or organizer.

-I included all the original spellings in this project, some which are sometimes phonic, and if a name is spelled differently, I have tried to keep that with the reference it is found at.

-If a job title or description, tribe affiliation or other important note is shown in the places they are mentioned, I included this in between the name and places found.

-Lastly, any lapses, incorrectness or errors are my fault. Forgive me, this is and always will be an ongoing project. If you find any need of a correction, let me know, as it will help others who use this list. I will update it every so often.

*“Lives of great men all remind us
We can make our lives sublime,
And departing, leave us footprints in the sand of time.
Footprints, that perhaps another
Sailing o’er life solemn main,
A forlorn and shipwrecked brother,
Seeing, shall take heart again.”*

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, 1838, A Psalm of Life

I believe that each and every name written here have stories to tell, lives worth knowing about and decedents who would like to find out more about their lineage.
